
Problem with Subject: Russian Letters @>1;5

Posted by alfalive - 2007/06/23 11:15

This is a bug I think. When I try to create a subject in russian letters. It does not work.

For example this posting. >>> @>1;5 this should be an russian word

=====

Re:Problem with Subject: Russian Letters @>1;5

Posted by alfalive - 2007/06/23 11:18

It also don't work in Message body. But I can solve that problem when I change a charset in template too utf-8.

=====

Re:Problem with Subject: Russian Letters @>1;5

Posted by Adeptus - 2007/06/23 11:25

Well, I'll try the russian text here:

?@>1C5

And: I can see russian texts in Preview window, but can't in message body.
Russian in user signature not supported also.

But I was fixed all this bugs in Fireboard RE. :)

=====

Re:Problem with Subject: Russian Letters @>1;5

Posted by alfalive - 2007/06/23 15:50

And what is now? How can I solve that problem?

you habe in your RE charset windows 1251 that is wrong charset for me because I use utf-8 and my community is bilingual. windows 1251 shows German ä ö u not correct.

I don't need russian interface of forum but possibility to write in russian Letters

=====