It would be great for multinational forums ! Like touristic forums, where there are all kinds of people who would be pleased to see their language there :)

Do you think is possible ?

Yes, you can work it out with the Joomfish extension, but this way the entire site should be multilingual :) But, if you upload the required languages for Fireboard, and change the language of your site, the interface of Fireboard also will set to that language.

yes but not all the languages are there. and if having many language files in the forum, you can easily translate them in many, that you need ;)

What about just let some people to post in their language and leave the system - primary language as english. I mean the menus, buttons, links, icons can stay in English, but users be able to post in other languages? This is what I would like to have.

Hi,

I have a multi language tourist portal (www.algarve.com.pt) and I'm considering adding a forum to it as well. I use JoomFish. Is there a way to translate the categories and forums for each language of FireBoard with JoomFish?

OK, I think I am a bit confused now. I thought it was possible to be able to post in other languages and just popped by here as I was confused on the install of the Simplified Chinese language pack. I stumbled across this post, and now I am understanding what I want to do won't work maybe.

My site is an English based site including the Forums, but wanted to allow people to post in Simplified Chinese also to make things more convenient for my user base.
Is there a way to do this? - and not change anything with the language of the site itself...

any advice would be appreciated - I am getting requests for Chinese and would like to add it to my site asap.

Any solutions to the chinese problem ??

We have a forum on chinese topics and just switched from Joomlaboard to Fireboard. If it isn't possible to write chinese characters in Fireboard - as it isn't in our forum right now - I'll have to regret that deeply.
