
Views should only record unique users

Views should only record unique users.

Multiple views from the same user increases the Views.

It would probably be better if a check is made for the same users before a View is recorded.

Otherwise it is quite easy to increase the views falsely giving credence to less important posts.

LOL.

Actually a big grin.

Someone watching closely enough to get the point.

I really do appreciate your observational skills.

Very good to "get it" with so little data.

Yes, I am running a HostMonitor on the URL which will get the views to over 1,000 rather soon.

Only to make the point.

It is very easy to manipulate the Views when there is no IP check.

Users look at Views as an indication of importance.

Too easy to manipulate now.

BINGO!

Over 1,000 Views in less than a half an hour.

Not reality, but . . .

Forum scumbags will undoubtedly exploit this situation.

Need to check IP and/or host when counting Views.

Thank you!

KenDog (kenmcd), Crazy, and Gregster (grmi64) in the house!

Sorry, being a "dirtbag" is the point here.

What are we up to now?

Holy crap - 1,552 now.

OK.

Thanks for the response.

Stopped at 3,116 Views.

Was off doing other things.

:laugh:

What is the FireBoard solution?

Oh my dogs, I got a negative Karma out of this.
Cannot tell where it came from.
Up yours dirt-bag.
If you have any balls, post your objections.
Heaven forbid any actual reactions from REAL users.

Game-On dirt-bag.
The Views will continue until the dirt-bag is identified.
And the issue is resolved.

3,400 you POS.
Weasel little dirt-bag.

Come-on you slimy little weasel.
Here I am you piss-ant.

Typical little eunuch.
Anonomous posting is the norm for a scum-bag weasel.
Come-out in the open you spineless wuss.

If this feature is implemented, I would like the ability to turn it off. An additional option, that is found in other forum software would be to not count the owner as a view as owners tend to check their threads more often than others. It would make it easier to see who "else" is viewing the thread.

Interesting warning.

How can you ban the unmannered user?
