
Board Code Suggestion

I noticed the Board Code section when you are posting something, which is great, but would be more useful if it was implemented a little bit more like phpBB, in that the first time you hit a button, it gives you the opening tag, and the second time, the closing tag. This would make it easier to work with i think.

Cheers, Axis.

Simple Machines Forum or shortly SMF uses a similar boardcode like Fireboard so it should not be strange for a Joomla! user :)

Maybe, but its not often, if at all that I can think that I wouldn't be inserting something into the tags, so it would be more useful if you could open them with a click, then type whatever, then close them with a click. The current method requires a bit of fiddling around to get the cursor in the right place..

I simply miss a few functions that I had in the old forum:

e.g. the slashed letter. If you have a list of To-Do things the function is nice.

Personally I find the listelement also quite complicated, it just doesn't seem obvious how to work with it. I was also used to a phpbb based forum before. Maybe a few modifications to make it simpler for users to know how they can use the list?

Greetings
Ellie

I really miss the $and codes for math and chemistry. Does anyone know how to get those codes in the Boardcode section?$
