
Far project evolution

Posted by Miro Dietiker - 2007/09/29 18:26

Hey guys (& girls too)!

FireBoard 1.5 is on our roadmap and we already have a fair intention about it.

So if you visited this forum and thought of where to find FB 1.5 or is it coming soon, the simple answer is "not yet". just started it to allow the community an insight and a location for further discussions about all that. Our first steps toward 1.5 direction will be presented here.

There's plenty to say... But please allow us some more time to arrange things around it.

:~)

=====

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by .Core - 2007/10/02 06:44

I can't wait to see what FireBoard 1.5 will look like! i love 1.0.3 already especially how the new admin look is and feel! Keep up the good work!:)

=====

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by Stasys - 2007/10/14 13:18

Can we use Fireboard 1.0.3 with Joomla 1.5 without legacy mode?
Or should we wait FireBoard 1.5 Series?

=====

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by Miro Dietiker - 2007/10/14 14:17

Within few weeks you'll see a new fireboard release 1.0.4 start working correctly in Legacy mode. 1.0.3 does many things wrong under J1.5: Don't use it.

FireBoard1.5 is about a rewrite in programming improving quality and extensibility but not nativity supporting Joomla 1.5.

Joomla 1.5 native is a pretty far thing. This especially because we don't want to loose Joomla 1.0 compatibility. Platforms based on Joomla 1.0 need being supported for a long time cause many of them couldn't simply switch to Joomla 1.5.

=====

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by Vairo - 2007/10/23 00:29

NICE , maybe it is time to update mine then :O

=====

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by gaca - 2007/10/27 05:48

All i have to say is "BRAVO"
can't wait 4 it, i mean 1.3 is nice beautifull, could imagine 1.5

=====

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by Stasys - 2007/10/27 13:40

gaca wrote:

can't wait 4 it, i mean 1.3 is nice beautifull, could imagine 1.5

It was 1.0.3 :)

Where we can see how 1.0.4 and 1.5 development is progressing? And what still needs to be fixed?

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by Miro Dietiker - 2007/10/27 14:46

Stasys: Become a dev and join us fixing ;-)

Then you'll see the whole thing.

We have further lists prepared for short term issues ordering importance. We're always looking for devs concentrating on bugfixing - while we're currently NOT looking for extension of functionality (no DB-change allowed).

However you could also watch joomlancode.org project tracker for a total overview.

And you could checkout SVN there to have an intension on latest revision (r1.0) for preparing 1.0.4.

About 1.5 evolution i kindly ask for patience and i'll tell another day more.

GrEeZ! Miro

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by Stasys - 2007/10/28 21:47

Miro, thanks for information and invitation, but at the moment I can only promis you to submit new bugs on Bug Tracker after 1.0.4 release ;)

Best regards,
Stasys

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by Stasys - 2007/11/09 16:49

Miro Dietiker wrote:

However you could also watch joomlancode.org project tracker for a total overview.

And you could checkout SVN there to have an intension on latest revision (r1.0) for preparing 1.0.4.

GrEeZ! Miro

Miro,

on tracker I still see 36 Open Count bugs, and no one is assigned to fix them.

How long is few weeks? Does it mean 1.0.4 is on hold?

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by Miro Dietiker - 2007/11/09 20:56

Stasys

I see even much more bugs not on the list and we're fixing lot of them.

First of all we decided a selection of most important problems to be solved for 1.0.4 whereas some minor ones will remain.

However if someone provides a patch or if we see a smooth solution it will be included ASAP. Feel free to start off debugging those issues and provide functional patches to get them away.

These are busy days for all of us and i'm looking forward to bring a two digit number of hours again back into this project within next 3 days.

Releasing another stable needs extensive testing else if you fix 15 bugs, another 10 new come up. That's what we all want to avoid - for your satisfaction.

In other words: This remains an open source project where resources are limited and everybody is invited to contribute.

Sorry for the silence you all will hear from me within short time.

wink

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by Stasys - 2007/11/14 21:20

Miro,
thanks for info, I understand that this is an open source project where resources are limited.

Should I look at <http://joomlancode.org/gf/project/fireboard/scmsvn/> for all new commits?

Who are still active FireBoard developers? Are they still interested in rapid FireBoard development, or is it just a hobby?

Best regards,
Stasys

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by sariel - 2007/11/19 10:45

A number of proposed fixes for 1.0.3 and of course J1-5 were committed to svn recently. We have been using svn for a while now and one of the major annoyances, the double page load of the forum seems to have been resolved. If you are quite comfortable using an unstable release, which for us has been stable, maybe worth checking out.

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by pedrohsi - 2007/11/19 18:32

well the double load has been fixed weeks ago with a modified php file - no problem on 1.0.3 either however, i haven't been able to download the nightly version cause it's passworded - am i noob? :)

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by rodvold - 2007/11/21 18:03

I'll just wait for the next release. I had so many hacks with my fireboard and than it became rescinded with 1.0.3.

=====

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by fxstein - 2007/12/10 20:50

A bunch of bugs have been fixed in the past couple of days and there are more on the list.

=====

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by jjakomo - 2007/12/22 18:41

Does the latest svn work with Joomla 1.5 in legacy mode?
Any updates on FB 1.0.4 and FB 1.5 status?

=====

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by Miro Dietiker - 2007/12/22 19:38

We're about to release 1.0.4 which is exactly current SVN (release/1.0 folder).

Currently any background information document is early draft. you can see release information here:
http://www.bestofjoomla.net/wiki/doku.php?id=com_fireboard:release_1.0:1.0.4:

Yes, this release is intended for Joomla 1.5 legacy, but has been tested only with RC3 as far as i know. However i don't expect anything to be subject of change for us.

Current task is to improve the whole project presentation and open all information to the community.
Then after we will start again to do what we initially where talking about: evolving FireBoard! ;-)

=====

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by jjakomo - 2007/12/22 21:48

Thanks.
I hope to test this with 1.5 legacy soon.

EDIT: How can I download the svn package? Isn't there a zip file?

=====

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by fxstein - 2007/12/22 23:56

Stasys wrote:
Miro Dietiker wrote:
However you could also watch joomlacode.org project tracker for a total overview.
And you could checkout SVN there to have an intension on latest revision (r1.0) for preparing 1.0.4.

GrEeZ! Miro

Miro,

on tracker I still see 36 Open Count bugs, and no one is assigned to fix them.

How long is few weeks? Does it mean 1.0.4 is on hold?

While it is true that there are bugs open, many are under investigation, some are configuration errors, a few are unconfirmed and the majority are cosmetic in nature.

We have been working day and night for the past couple of weeks fixing bugs. 1.0.4 is imminent and a HUGE improvement to any prior FireBoard version.

I encourage you and others to join in an help confirm, fix, take care of bugs.

=====

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by Stasys - 2008/01/14 13:00

thanks for 1.0.4, maybe you should update roadmap, if Joomla 1.5 support (legacy mode)is working now. Do you think on the year 2009 we'll have Joomla 1.5 support (native)? or is it possible in the 2008?

Fireboard 1.0.4
24 Dec 2007

Developer Note

Version 1.1+
Fireboard 1.1
*

Group Management
Additional image and file upload
Fireboard 1.2
*

Joomla 1.5 support (lagacy mode)
Plugin system
Template installation and management
Advanced Search Plugin
Better moderator features: Merge, Split
Fireboard 2.0
Joomla 1.5 support (native)

=====

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by VDNy - 2008/02/12 10:28

hi im sorry for my english is any date for FireBoad 1.5

=====

Re:Far project evolution

Posted by Stasys - 2008/05/18 00:30

maybe couple years, and maybe never :(

=====