

---

Random image in Content

Posted by buddhanoir - 2007/12/30 09:28

---

We are big fans of joomla/mambo, but have run into a slight issue with inserting random images inside the content (with the text wrapping around the image as in a magazine or newspaper article). We can do this manually, but we have hundreds and hundreds of pages, and adding individual images would take a looong time. we would rather have a module inside of the content section that could pull random images from different directories. For example, all pages related to ABC would pull random images from the ABC folder of images. And all pages related to XYZ would pull random images from the XYZ folder of images.

Is there an extension that exists for this?

=====