
Message not displaying

Posted by JayJoomla - 2008/02/10 15:36

I would appreciate some help with this problem I have encountered:

I installed the Fireboard, created the Forum, and configured it according to how I wanted it. It looks great. I can add a message and the data is submitted without problems. However, if I click the Subject header of my added message something happens...

The page breaks out of the Joomla template and is displayed in stripped html, AND there is no message showing. I attach two screenshots.

Is there something wrong with the database? I have no clue what is happening and would be really thankful for some help here.

/J

=====

Re:Message not displaying

Posted by JayJoomla - 2008/02/10 15:40

Ok, here is the re-sized screenshot...

=====

Re:Message not displaying

Posted by JayJoomla - 2008/02/10 15:42

Grrr, third try... http://www.bestofjoomla.com/images/fbfiles/images/Fireboard_Error_small.jpg

=====

Re:Message not displaying

Posted by Mr CHill - 2008/05/26 23:52

Hey friend, I have the same problem and I posted in the other forum section with no replys. Do you know of another forum where they might respond at least to say they can't help? I was able to reinstall fireboard and the problem went away, don't ask me how, I now have a new problem! when I press submit to create a post nothing at all happens for several seconds and then I get a 404. My contact page is not working also so I could really use another forum for advise. I hope you get some help. If you come up with anything please let me know, Thanks, chris
PS My forum was doing the exact thing yours was and when I reinstalled I used the simplementefutbol template and kept all settings the same as the first time and it started working somehow. That makes me think it (the problem) was connected to the forum templates in some way. You might also try installing the sample data as that corrected some things that were wrong with my installation too. I hope I have been of some help to you, good luck!

=====