

---

switch off bar topic icon and board code

Posted by dprop - 2007/09/22 17:00

---

It has been asked many times in the How To forum: a way to switch off the bar with topic icons and the board code in the message window.

For the topic icon there is a workaround but for the board code nobody seems to have the answer.

Is it possible to have a parameter that allows you to switch off the topic icon and a parameter to switch the boardcode? I have inexperienced users and they get especially scared of the boardcode. They think they have to follow a programming course how to post a message.

Dirk Prop

---

Re:switch off bar topic icon and board code

Posted by TWD - 2007/10/22 15:12

---

I agree, boardcode and topic icons can confuse people!

Both can be removed by editing the files smile.class.php and fb_write.html.php

Hope that helps,

Peter

---

Re:switch off bar topic icon and board code

Posted by Fleagle - 2007/12/07 10:22

---

GAH! I give up. I've tried posting html/php code inside the Code bb tags 6 different ways and it never works.

---

Re:switch off bar topic icon and board code

Posted by Tomoe - 2008/03/11 21:45

---

TWD wrote:

I agree, boardcode and topic icons can confuse people!

Indeed! Especially people not used to forums and things like that. And they are quite a lot...

Both can be removed by editing the files smile.class.php and fb_write.html.php

Eerh! Could someone explain a little bit more to a half-newbee? Already changed things in php files, but I'm afraid I don't understand very well what to do in smile.class.php and fb_write.html.php

Thanks a lot.

---