
Error on automatic redirect after post. 1.0.4

Posted by jegbertzen - 2008/04/01 02:04

When fireboard redirects the user automatically, it returns a wrong URL.

In my case it does:

http://www.crossyourborders.nl/index.php?option=com_fireboard&Itemid=136&func=view&catid=4&id=4676#4676

and it should be

http://www.crossyourborders.nl/index.php?option=com_fireboard&Itemid=136&func=view&catid=4&id=4676#4676

com_fireboard&=com_fireboard&

In my case it gives the default template back but I have assigned a specific one to the forum. After clicking on a link again it's goes back to the assigned template.

Need a quick fix of this bug, but I cannot find it. Please post fast.

Jeroen

Both links give a blank screen off course they do as it is a registered part, but it's about the difference between those links. Now I see the editor changed the link and corrected the error.

The redirect gives & a m p s ; (with spaces otherwise it changes again) after com_fireboard which gives a wrong template.

Is this my browser then or a typing error in the code?

the problem is that the redirect URL after you post a topic: (when you wait it redirects automatically)

http://www.crossyourborders.nl/index.php?option=com_fireboard&a m p ; Itemid=136&func=view&catid=4&id=4676#4676

Which returns the default template.

When the url is

http://www.crossyourborders.nl/index.php?option=com_fireboard&Itemid=136&func=view&catid=4&id=4676#4676

which is correct. If I remove amp; it shows the correct template

I don't know where to correct this.

And as you can see by your post, we can't even see your full link address.

I hope someone else can help you a little more than I can. I can't trouble shoot an issue I can see or test to give an educated resolution.

I'm sorry but I'm giving the differences and I'm telling the problem. I only need to know in which file the redirect is handled...

It does not matter that you cannot see my full URL, does it?

The only problem is & (good)

or

& a m p ; (bad)

Re>Error on automatic redirect after post. 1.0.4

Posted by Hazzaa - 2008/04/02 19:23

& is code to create & in browser.
Redirects are handled on almost every page.
latestx.php
message.pgp showcat.php listcat.php
plugins/myprofile/almost all files in here
plugin/fbprofile/most files in here

Hope that helps ;)

Any news on this, i have this issue with 1.0.4 since the beginning with ghost links when moving thread and with links to thread sent by the report to moderator feature.

Basically if you leave a ghost link moving a thread the link goes nowhere and you get back to forum home page, it's the same if i click a link to thread in the mail i receive with the "report to moderator" feature.

For the record i use the nightly build SVN#551.

I have the same problem:

http://www.medicaa.com/index.php?option=com_fireboard&Itemid=70&func=showcat&catid=6 in the moment I click to see a post:

http://www.medicaa.com/index.php?option=com_fireboard&Itemid=70&func=view&catid=6&id=&id=8&catid=6

This is an screen shot:

I have the same problem as well..

What really should be just "&" becomes "&". I've noticed that it is only the redirection that goes wrong. If you manually click "Return to the topic" it works.

Here's the a href code for the the manual link (from post.php):

echo " . _POST_SUCCESS_VIEW . '
';
```

And this is the javascript that redirects (from the same post.php)

```
setTimeout("location=", 3500);

Anyone know how to fix this?

Thanks in advance

When a user posts a reply it redirects and a page opens with:

Not Acceptable

An appropriate representation of the requested resource /joomla/index.php could not be found on this server.

The URL that gave an error page looked like this:

.../joomla/index.php?option=com_fireboard&Itemid=3&func=view&catid=3&id=6#6

When I remove the extra "amp;" from the URL and hit enter it works the way it should.

The latest stable version of Fireboard is working fine on J1.5 for some. They seem to have the solution but have no desire to share it with us. The auto redirect is working fine on some J1.5 sites, and obviously they have the solution. I have seen many situations where people find a solution to a problem but never share them with others.

They will wait for the version 2.0 and will upgrade it.

If you know or found a solution to fix the problems it would be nice of you to share it with others instead of locking it up in a chest of personal secrets.

There is a fix to this bug, it is just that they for some reason don't want to share. It might be a top secret information.B)

It took me some time to figure this out - but my problem (which was the same as you are experiencing) was that I had set badword filtering to yes - without having the badword filter component installed. I set to no and everything fixed itself.

Good luck!

I never set bad word filter to yes and I looked it is set no. I have installed latest svn and it is still doing it.

I already directed yesterday you to this post yesterday, where seems someone had a fix, and if not working, at least deactivation of the redirection:

http://www.bestofjoomla.com/component/option,com_fireboard/Itemid,38/func,view/id,53048/catid,73/#53048

Can't try as I can't reproduce on my local server :/ also seems it only happens with j1.5 series, so maybe is not only a fireboard bug ;) you must understand, that right now, fireboard in j1.5 does only run in legacy mode, that is not even close to perfect...

the .htaccess was modded so I've put it back RewriteEngine on and then on admin panel at "Global Configuration" > site> at SEO setting I enable "Use Apache mod_rewrite" that do the trick for me now..

Turning redirection off:

edit the post.php file in the directory of the template you are using.

in the default template post.php line 419 and 441 (inside the script tags)

setTimeout("location=", 3500);

comment these lines (add // at the beginning of the line)

This disabled the automatic redirect for me and fixed the problem.

I did not know how to do it. There are 2-3 htaccess files on my server, I don't know which one to edit or where to save it. Confusing. I don't know anything about htaccess. I opened it and saw weird texts inside and decided not to touch it.

you can always backup it first ;)

htaccess is a file used for the apache servers to handle redirections and so :)

strange thing is you have more than one .htaccess file. Could you list which ones you have?

One in server root, and one in public_html and one inside joomla root folder. I think it is the one that is inside joomla root folder. But it is htaccess.txt and I have to rename it. BUt Do i have to put that code inside that htaccess file if yes where on top, middle or in the end?

the htaccess.txt is as follows:

No need to modify nothing, as you can see, you already have the RewriteEngine On, this is to say the server we're gonna us the URL rewriting.

You just need to turn mod_rewrite on in general config (on admin panel at "Global Configuration" > site> at SEO setting I enable "Use Apache mod_rewrite")

And rename your htaccess.txt to .htaccess

Ok I set Use Apache mod_rewrite to yes then changed the htaccess.txt to .htaccess

It is still redirecting to an error page. I have read somewhere that .htaccess takes some time to work fully. Should I wait another hour or so or maybe a day then test it again?

No clue :laugh:

As I said I have never faced this problem neither can reproduce, I can just point you in suggestion given by other people ;)

Would mean checking the code, but, why not modify the URL generated on the redirection, witht tue URL used in the 'back to topic' link? it should be same one, and both are generated on the fly by arguments...

have new version anyway.
