
Community Builder Clone

Posted by clanspot - 2008/04/02 20:22

You can find the Component and standard Modules here: <http://www.ifoundjoomla.com>

We are proud to announce the initial release of our Community Builder 1.1 Clone Component/Modules.

You can find the Component and standard Modules here: <http://www.ifoundjoomla.com>

You might be wondering what exactly is this Clone? Well its quite simple and pretty easy to understand. What this allows you to do is run "Two" instances of Community Builder on a single Joomla installation.

What are the benefits?

1. Dual Registrations - custom to fit your needs.
2. Seperate User Groups - ie (Job websites "JobSeekers, Employers")
3. Seperate Profile Layout/Configurations
4. Seperate Plugin installations
5. Manage each installation seperately

The list really is endless, the main attraction is that this will allow you the advantages of the standard Community Builder installation twice.

Disadvantages?

1. Plugins do not work out of the box.
2. Modules do not work out of the box.

Both of the above require slight modifications which take a matter of just a couple of minutes.

We however are attempting to take these steps for you and seek the most popular CB plugins, modules, mambots and convert them for you so that they will run in correspondence with the new configuration.

What has changed between the two instances?

1. Small terms have changed to allow seperate installations.
2. Database entries have also been changed to seperate the tables/quiries between the installations.

We have developed this for ourselves to use as an Employment Website which as mentioned above needed seperate usergroups with seperate installations..etc "Job Seekers, Employers" and we must say it has worked perfectly.

You can find the Component and standard Modules here: <http://www.ifoundjoomla.com>

We are currently working on converting the other information as needed.

This software is released as is, without warranty but we do encourage questions, upgrades and support form our users.

Credit for this Component/Module set and Source Code is given to the Development Team at <http://www.joomlapolis.com>

=====

Re:Community Builder Clone

Posted by iosoft - 2008/04/02 22:23

any DEMO ?

=====

Re:Community Builder Clone

Posted by clanspot - 2008/04/02 23:23

Hey buddy, no I don't have a demonstration setup yet but I can work it out and have it up within a day or so.

My advice is to download it if you think it would be useful and test it personally so you have full admin access and can get a feel for it. I designed it because I needed a "Multisites" component without actually having Multiple sites if that makes sense and all of the components available either cost $MONEY$ or just didn't work.

I am sure it could use some tweaking but it worked well for me and hope it will work well with others.

One thing not included is a "Cross Connection" plugin which would need to be built inorder to allow connections between the two instances of Community Builder. I have not had the time to sit down and program this but it is open to anyone interested.

Thanks,
James

=====

Re:Community Builder Clone

Posted by nant - 2008/04/04 01:23

So I guess all the

Prior to public release I am trying to have BEAT bless it and allow me to do so.

stuff mentioned here:

http://www.joomlapolis.com/component/option,com_joomlaboard/Itemid,38/func,view/id,59944/catid,13/was unsincere ...

:(

=====

Re:Community Builder Clone

Posted by clanspot - 2008/04/04 03:30

What do you mean by that? "Insincere?"

=====