
Fireboard needs to (re)establish your access . . .

Posted by grmi64 - 2007/08/01 08:55

I'm using the FB Latest Post Module and I'm getting the following "message" at the top of the board when I click the "More. . ." link (you enable that link with the "More post link" option in the module configuration). I'm not sure if it's really a problem with the module or what the issue is.

Here's the message at the top of Fireboard:

Fireboard needs to (re)establish your access privileges before it can create a list of the latest posts for you.\nDo not worry, this is quite normal a

No idea what this means.

I have a URL menu link on my main menu pointing to FireBoard's 'Show Latest Posts / Week' link. When users click this for first time (each site visit) they are taken to FB index page and receive this message 'FireBoard needs to (re)establish your access privileges before it can create a list of the latest posts for you.\nDo not worry, this is quite normal a' at the top of the board. Once the menu link is re-clicked the latest posts page is shown.

Installed version: FireBoard 1.0.4 Stable 23 December 2007

I'm getting the same error message even when I'm logged in. If I go back and re login again it goes away. It's there though usually the first time you login and try to access your profile or posts Any suggestions

This has been fixed in 1.0.5

Not a simple fix, as all of the access privileges had to be rewritten - so you can't apply the fix to 1.0.4
