
Corrupted template ZIP files

Posted by skompier - 2007/12/02 00:39

I've tried downloading some of the free Joomla templates and all of them have been incomplete/corrupted. I can download the FB templates fine. This happens in XP and Ubuntu Linux. Anyone else having this issue?

Yes, I've tried several and they're all corrupted (Windows XP). Other .zip files unzipping just fine.

Also will not extract in Joomla 1.0.13.

Anyone have any answers?

going through the same corrupted zip file issue, didn't realize it until I downloaded several and tried to install them...then the ones that did have an archive are missing their templateDetails.xml file.

Yup, there was a stupid empty line at the top of the parser :)
glad it works

I'm experiencing the same issue!
All of the downloaded templates have an invalid zip file (on Vista)

I have tried downloading several of the templates in IE6 and IE7.
Also on XP and Vista. They are all invalid.
I hope someone can fix this :(

I have the same problems on my site. Googled for 2 hours learned me that this is a IE7-bug with downloading zip's.
<http://www.dslreports.com/forum/r17602119-IE-IE7-corrupting-ZIP-files-Firefox-does-not~start=20>

<http://www.bestofjoomla.com/images/fbfiles/images/20383.gif>

so firefox is the answer. ofcourse it would be nicer to offer users some other way of downloading zip-files. offering rar's for windows-users on ie7 is not much more userfriendly then telling then to use firefox.

any other ideas?

What else do you want? It's an IE7 problem. Tell Bill Gates to fix it.

If you find a workaround for it, send me and I will fix it here on BOJ.

bill knows this already:

<http://support.microsoft.com/kb/308090>

the only 'solution' I see so far is to link directly to the zip-files without any php-download-script. Too bad the counter doesn't work then. I've been trying to use ajax for that, but got stuck:

<http://forum.joomla.org/viewtopic.php?f=127&t=321426>

anyone else found a workaround yet?
